HEY, PEEPS!

Movie madness has taken over the KZ HQ this month, resulting in an issue that's anything but despicable! Natch, the main events of this fun foray into the cinematic world are June's featured flicks: Despicable Me 3, Wonder Woman, and Transformers: The Last Knight.

Just as Gru found his long-lost twin bro Dru, we spotted some celebs' toon lookalikes! We also designed retro weapons, inspired by new villain Balthazar Bratt's rainbow smoke-belching Rubik's cube, and came up with wacky alternative uses for bananas. All Minion-approved, of course!

There's no shortage of male superheroes, so it's totes refreshing when fierce females are in the spotlight. We're thrilled that Wonder Woman finally gets her own flick, and we're hyped to watch it. That girl slays!

Finally, the Transformers are back for another outing on Earth. They really love it here, don't they? We wondered why, so we investigated. I should give Cade Yeager a call—maybe he'll find our theories useful!

Want more movies? We've also listed film franchises that are perf for a movie marathon, traced the timeline of all Pixar flicks so far, and came up with useful life hacks for various movie genres. You're welcome!

BTW, Edith says hi!

EDITOR'S PICK

KZ ASSISTANT SECTION EDITOR WRENZ GEEKS OUT OVER THE HEROES OF OLYMPUS!

K-Zone: How did you first get into the series?

Wrenz: I'm a huge fan of the Percy Jackson books. So, when I found out that the Greek demigods will also be appearing in the HOO series, I immediately grabbed the first book of the series, The Lost Hero.

KZ: Which one is your fave book from the series?

W: The Mark of Athena

The coolest moment was when Percy and Annabeth were finally reunited after an amnesiac Percy went MIA. It's the most d'aww-worthy scene in the series!

KZ: Who are your fave characters?

W: Percy and Frank. I think Percy is cool 'coz he's been the strongest in the crew since the POJ series. I also dig Frank 'coz his shape-shifting ability is useful and super awesome.

KZ: Any reading recs after the HOO series?

W: Rick Riordan wrote lotsa books about mythology, from Greek to Egyptian. Check out his latest series, Magnus Chase, which is about the Norse gods.

KZ: What kind of demigod would you like to be?

W: A Greek demigod because I find the legends more interesting. Plus, I think Camp Half-Blood seems more fun than Camp Jupiter. (Don't tell the Roman gods!)

FIGHT LIKE A GIRL

THE AMAZONIAN PRINCESS AIN'T NO DAMSEL IN DISTRESS. SOMETIMES, SHE'S EVEN THE ONE WHO'S DOING THE SAVING. HERE'S A LIST OF WONDER WOMAN'S MOST KICK-BUTT MOMENTS.

DIANA TO THE RESCUE

Remember her appearance (only the most epic superhero entrance evar!) in Batman v. Superman: Dawn of Justice? She totes saved Batsy's butt when she used her cuffs to deflect Doomsday's destructive rays. What would the boys do without her?

WONDER RATING

CAT FIGHT

Wonder Woman literally fought to the death when she went toe-to-toe with Cheetah in Justice #12. Even though she was poisoned and weakened, she stayed behind and battled Cheetah while the rest of the Justice League helped the city residents evacuate. She gathered all her might and defeated her foe with a massive headbutt!

TAKING ONE FOR THE TEAM

In JLA: A League of One, Wonder Woman learned of a prophecy stating that the JLA would die if they chased the dragon Karfang. She sent her teammates to space to spare them from a horrible fate, then she went after Karfang alone. The purity of WW's intentions helped her survive the dragon's scorching flames. She succeeded in killing the beast, but her heart stopped, just as the prophecy foretold. Thank goodness Supes arrived in time to give her CPR.

WOMAN AGAINST MAN

Bruce Wayne's One Man Army Corps (OMAC) went bonkers and started targeting superheroes in Wonder Woman Vol. 2 #221. Our homegirl was thrown into molten iron and presumed dead, but she rose up from the liquid metal and blew the OMAC to smithereens—all while wearing a smile on her face. All in a day's work!

BRAWLIN' AND BALLIN'

If all of the above ain't enough proof of how amazeballs the Amazonian Princess is, watch the Wonder Woman movie. Diana underwent years of rigorous training, spoke up against slavery, swatted away a bomb like it's NBD, exchanged blows with multiple guys, and fought in the first World War! Wonder Woman is the epitome of #GirlPower!

IN REEL LIFE

WHY ARE THEY HERE?!

LABOR AND SUPPLIES ARE AFFORDABLE.

Out of all the planets in the TF 'verse, maybe Earth is where the mechs can find the cheapest necessities, like fuel, 'bot parts, repair services, and even paint jobs.

EARTH IS A CANDIDATE FOR THE NEW CYBERTRON.

It's the next logical step, right? Reach the limits of your own evolution, start a war, destroy your home planet, colonize a new one, then start all over again. The Transformers could be scouting around for the best place to reestablish the great planet of Cybertron.

THEY'RE PROBABLY OUR BIGGEST FANS.

Optimus Prime himself has said that regardless of how young or naive we are as a species, there's an innate goodness in humans that's pretty admirable—and apparently totes worth getting their auto butts kicked for.

Cybertron Expert: Andrea Gascoyne

It's the million-dollar question: Why do Autobots and Decepticons keep comin' back to Earth? We thought up some possible answers.

THEY GOTTA PREVENT HUMANS FROM ANNIHILATING OURSELVES.

Ironhide once said that humans are a "primitive and violent race." That, combined with our tendency to bite off more than we can chew and our horrible track record for peacekeeping, makes it easy to imagine that we'll inevitably self-destruct one day.

THEY'RE CREATIONS OF A SUPER FUTURISTIC HUMAN CIVILIZATION.

It's possible that human technology will eventually become advanced enough to develop and create an Allspark, and that the Transformers we know today are actually just inventions of our future selves. Ever wonder why the Transformers look kind of humanoid when they're supposed to be an alien race (and could look literally outta-this-world)?

IT'S THE DIRECTOR'S FAULT.

Blame Michael Bay for taking us on this joyride! He really seems to love them big CGI explosions. #ItsMoreFunOnEarth

WHEN TO STAND OUT:

PEOPLE FOOD

As a rep of the monster world who's enrolled in Muckledunk Middle School, Bunsen must immerse himself in the local culture. That includes trying out the human noms. Yum!

Hooman Recs:
Spaghetti, tacos, and ice cream

P.S. Beware of the infamous beets 'coz they can send friendly monsters into a mindless rampage. #BeetsMode

NO BULLIES ALLOWED

Amanda is a meanie who wants Bunsen kicked out of school 'coz she doesn't like monsters. Fortunately, that doesn't stop him, Mikey, and other human supporters from having a blast. Bunsen proudly waves the freak flag and just keeps doing his thing. He even saves Amanda from the Sneeze Beasts, proving that just because he's different doesn't mean he's bad.

Monstrous Must-tries:
Give your friends sacks of candied apples, hug 'em using your extendable eyeballs, and celebrate beastgiving.

QUIRKY SKILLS AND THRILLS

Bunsen's whimsical and complex anatomy gives him super awesome features, such as multiple arms. Show off your beastly abilities to impress the hoomans, and teach 'em your own versh of different sports.

Monstrous Must-tries:
Hide-and-go-freak, scare-hockey, and beastketball

HOME SHRIEK HOME

Welcome your human friend into your humble abode and let 'em meet the fam bam. Cultural immersion is a two-way street, so talk about your hometown, too.

Monstrous Must-tries:
Chat with the talking house, sit on the furry couch, view the snapping toilet, and go arm-wrestle the tentacle.

DYK? Creator Butch Hartman also gave us The Fairly OddParents, Danny Phantom, and T.U.F.F. Puppy.

Beast Friend: Karen de Vera

WHEN TO FIT IN:

MEET AND GREET

Not every human will appreciate it if you throw a detached arm or a severed head at 'em. Just ask Bunsen's human buddy Mikey and the citizens of Muckledunk. Find out the local customs and adapt to them first before busting out your own moves.

Hooman Recs:
High-fives, hugs, and fist bumps

P.S. Don't detach your monster head from your bod for extended periods of time. If they're apart for too long, another head made of pure evil will sprout and destroy your old head—along with all your friends.

CREATURE COMFORTS

There's a time and place for popping out your eyeballs or transforming into a giant bee—keep this in mind so you don't shock the elderly folk like Bunsen did.

Hooman Rec:
Be nice and courteous to all the peeps you meet!

P.S. Make sure to check on your human buddy's safety. He's not as immune to damage as beasts are.

BEAST OUTTA WATER

Bunsen shows you when to put your beast foot forward and when to proudly rep your creature culture.

DYK? The show takes place in the same 'verse as The Fairly OddParents. In fact, Bunsen and Cosmo are pals!

NICE CAR,

HOWL'S CASTLE

HOWL'S MOVING CASTLE

This humongous, complex structure has a magical door that leads to different places. "Castle" might be a bit of misnomer, 'coz it looks more like a steampunk house decked out with chimneys and pipes. Check out those mechanical legs and wings. Can you say sugoi?

CATBUS

MY NEIGHBOR TOTORO

The Catbus is a cross between—you guessed it—a cat and a bus. The anthropomorphic vehicle meows like a real cat and flies directly to your desired destination. It has a hollow body with seats and windows, eyes that glow like a car's headlights, 12 legs instead of tires, and a bushy tail. Its best feature? A wide, toothy grin similar to the Cheshire Cat's.

CROWD OF CATS

THE CAT RETURNS

In the flick The Cat Returns, a clowder of magical felines takes the main character, Haru, to the Cat Kingdom to meet the Cat King. Haru literally rode on the kitties' backs. Now that's a quirky, fluffy, and purr-fect ride!

Dashing Driver: Klaudia Vendivel
Illustrations: Melvin Calingo

BRUH!

Hop on the best rides in the anime 'verse and buckle up!

PUFFING TOM
ONE PIECE

A train that can operate on water? You betcha! Puffing Tom is the second sea train built in One Piece after the steam-powered prototype called Rocket Man. PT looks like a typical train with a steam boiler, an inverted cowcatcher, a smoke box, passenger cars, and freight cars.

MAGIC BOMBER: CHRISTINA
FAIRY TAIL

This imposing airship's appearance is based on its guild, Blue Pegasus. The ship's body is made of metal and is equipped with six cannons that shoot powerful mystical beams at opponents. It was first featured in the Oracion Seis Arc, and, after the Tenrou Arc, got a makeover with more traditional ship parts like masts and sails.

TAKE-COPTER
DORAEMON

Gain flight abilities with the Take-copter, A.K.A. the "Bamboo Copter" or "Hopter." This compact contraption is made up of bamboo, a small propeller, and a suction cup that you can put on your head like a cap. It can carry a person of any weight. To control it, all you gotta do is lean in any direction.

POWER UP

The 1941 All Star Comics #8 where WW made her first appearance is currently worth over a million U.S. dollars!

According to the first WW origin story, Hippolyta, queen of the Amazons, created Diana's body out of clay. The Greek goddess Athena then gave it life.

In DC's New 52 continuity, WW beat supervillain and Greek god Ares in battle and replaced him as the god of war.

Wonder Woman ran for President of the United States twice: in 1943 and in 1972. She lost both times, unfortunately.

You know all about Jor-El, Pa Kent, and even Thomas Wayne. But did you ever wonder why you've never heard of Wonder Woman's dad? 'Coz only in DC Comics' New 52 continuity did we find out that the Greek god Zeus is her father.

WW is one of the most powerful DC superheroes, but DYK that her bulletproof bracelets actually restrict her full power?

Lasso of Truth or Dare

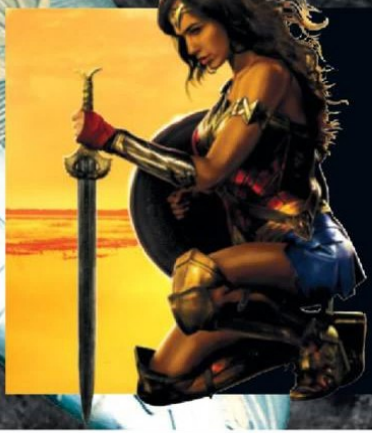
Are you an expert on the wonders of Wonder Woman? Grab a bud and take turns reading out these trivia to each other. For every item you didn't know (be honest!), you must accept a dare from your pal!

Her real name is Diana of Themyscira, Princess of the Amazons. But we regular dudes and dudettes can call her by her civilian name Diana Prince.

In the Marvel vs DC crossover comic series in the '90s, Wonder Woman was able to lift Thor's hammer, Mjölnir. She never used it, though, because she didn't want to give herself an unfair advantage over Storm.

Diana used to own a boutique. She sold clothes from the late 1960s to the early 1970s, during a period when she'd lost her powers. Hey, everybody needs a hobby.

She used to have a lot of superpowers that she inherited from Greek gods, including telepathy, superspeed, and the ability to communicate with animals.



Being a warrior princess, you'd think it was natural for WW to use a sword and a shield, but she didn't wield these weps until 2011.

It was not until 1942 that WW gained the ability to fly. Before then, she had to use an invisible plane to get from one place to another.

Diana's aircraft eventually transformed into an invisible flying fortress called the WonderDome. Why? Because the plane was manipulated into attacking her in Wonder Woman #140, and it morphed into the WonderDome as an apology. Yep. That really happened.

F1 races are two hours long, tops, while RL travel happens virtually 24/7. This is why regular cars have brighter lights. These lamps are usually high-intensity discharge (HID) or light-emitting diode (LED) units.

HORROR REEL

GET LOST IN THE MOVIE MADNESS!

I flunked math this school year, so I'm stuck taking summer classes. It doesn't help that I have to attend 'em in an affiliated remedial center in the middle of nowhere. Such a bore chore! I've decided to sneak out of school for a day to explore the city and actually enjoy my summer vacation.

"Later, losers!" I mutter under my breath as I duck outta class and head for the streets. To my utter disappointment, there isn't much to see and I've scoped out the whole place in less than an hour. No computer shops around this joint, but there's a rundown theater. Sweet! It's time for a movie marathon.

There's nobody around to collect tickets, so I walk right into the cinema. There's only one screening room, and zero posters to clue me in on what kind of movie I'm about to see. I enter an empty room—guess it's a slow day for business—and sit in the front row.

The film projector makes a loud whirring noise and the movie starts. The first scene shows a party where people in colorful garb dance to festive music. It's so corny but I can't look away. That's strange. The dancing picks up a frantic pace. It's like someone pressed the fast-forward button. Suddenly, the film stops and the screen flashes a black-and-white image of a street.

Before I can make any sense of it, an invisible hand grabs my shirt and pulls me toward the screen.

I land on the pavement with a resounding thud. My chin scratches the concrete upon contact, making me wince. I pull myself up slowly, blinking hard as I shake off the shock. I stand up and check my surroundings while rubbing my chin to soothe the searing pain.

Tonight, it's darker than the darkest night. I squint, trying to see around me. My heart beats loudly. I'm sweating despite the cool evening breeze. Suddenly, a faint ball of light appears across the street. I breathe a sigh of relief. I can find my way around this place now.

I approach the light—it's a wide, rectangular passageway. This must be the movie screen where I was pulled through. As I draw closer, I can make out the chairs inside the cinema on the other side, where I sat only moments ago. Maybe if I go through it again, I can finally return to the real world. But before I can exit this place, a face with a wide grin comes into view.

"Hey, newcomer!" a jolly guy calls out. "No need to be frightened. I'm just giving you a warm, happy Stormen town greeting. I'm part of the welcoming committee, you see. The name's Phil, pleased to meet ya!"

Phil extends his hand, which I reluctantly shake. This dude looks around my age but he's several inches taller. He practically towers over me.

"Where am I?" I ask.

Spooky Storyteller: Karen de Vera
Illustrations: Maku Felix

"You came from the other side and now you're in our world," he coolly replies. Well, he does dress similarly to the people in the film. Staring too long at his clothes gives me a headache. No wonder I freaked out at first glance. Okay, I've figured out that I'm asleep and having the weirdest dream right now. I'll just go with it.

Phil leads me to a plaza and I see the same townsfolk from the film dancing around. They offer me a seat at a long table filled with scrumptious food. I feel my tummy grumble and realize that I'm very hungry. I start scarfing down anything within my reach—fried chicken, pizza, chocolate, cake. They keep serving me food until I can't eat anymore. I stand up and start to make my way out when Phil stops me.

"Hey, newcomer! We're not done yet. We've got a big boiling pot just for you," he says, gesturing toward a giant cauldron on top of a bonfire.

"Thanks for the offer, but I've had my fill. I'm gonna go back now," I reply, trying my best to be polite as I attempt an exit.

Phil lets out a hearty laugh and slaps me on the shoulder. "Maybe I didn't make myself clear. We are putting you inside the cauldron."

What?! The music abruptly halts and the crowd watches me.

And then I hear scraping sounds—they're soft at first and then grow louder and louder.

The townsfolk's human flesh falls to the ground, revealing truly monstrous forms with the bodies of insects, huge claws like a crab's, and rows of gleaming white teeth. The Stormen people, no, creatures start clicking their claws and letting out throaty growls. Terrified, I take a step back, then another. My legs are trembling so hard, I can barely stand. I brace myself by tensing my leg muscles so I can run.

Luckily, I'm fast on my feet. Once I find a chance to bolt, I run back to the glowing doorway. I try entering the portal but it's blocked by an invisible barrier. I desperately keep pushing my way in but nothing happens. I knock until my knuckles bruise.

"Don't you know that you're stuck in a horror movie? There's no happy ending for you," sneers Phil in his hideous true form.

The Stormen monsters finally catch up to me and drag me to my doom.

How To Draw:

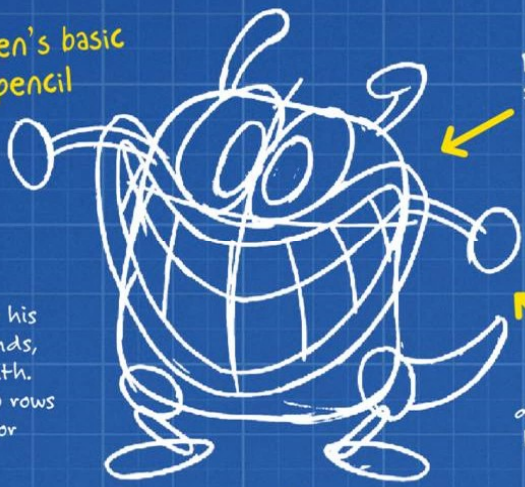
Step 1*: Sketching Bunsen's basic shapes using a pencil



Draw a big square for his body.

Make ovals for his eyes, ears, hands, feet, and mouth. Lastly, draw two rows of squares for his teeth.

Don't forget to add cross hairs on his body to mark the eye line.

Step 2*: Deets, please!

Draw a pair of ovals for his eyes.

Add fur to his body by drawing connected triangles and semicircles.

*Remember to sketch lightly during steps 1 and 2 so that step 3 will be easier!

BUNSEN

Step 3: Finishing touches

Using a combo of thick and thin strokes, ink your drawing over the sketch details. Erase the pencil marks when the ink dries.

Step 4: Monster mayhem

K-ZONE PAPER POPS #KZFILTERS

Created by Nib Santos

UNICORN UNIFORM

HOW TO MAKE YOUR KZ PAPER POP FILTER:

1. Cut out each cardboard piece of the unicorn selfie props.
2. Make slits along the red X's on the UNICORN EYES.
3. To make the UNICORN EYES wearable, thread one rubber band through each X. Secure each rubber band by looping it through itself. Wear the filter by looping the rubber bands around your ears. If that ain't your style, switch it up by grabbing a piece of thin garter, inserting the tips in the slits, then tying a knot at each end. Wear the prop by pulling the garter over and around your head.
4. Tape the back of the RAINBOW BARF on a popsicle or barbecue stick. Don't forget to remove the stick's pointy end.
5. Grab a headband that matches your hair color. Stick the HORN in the center using clear tape. Use the same tape to attach the EARS beside the horn. Now that you're done, it's time to take a selfie!

CHECK OUT THIS ILLUSTRATED GUIDE!

PONY PARTY

Here are other fun ways to make the most outta your magical filter.

1. Gently stick the pieces on your pet for an instant unicorn costume.
2. Upgrade celeb posters or blown-up family pics by giving dem peeps a colorful makeover.

Take a selfie wearing the KZ Paper Pop unicorn filter and share it on Instagram or Facebook. Use the hashtags #kzoneph and #KZFilters so we can find your pics!

TEKKEN 7

AVAILABLE ON: PLAYSTATION 4, XBOX ONE, PC

GENRE

Get ready for the next battle! The seventh King of Iron Fist Tournament is the series' biggest brawl yet!

GOTCHU, FAM!

Jin Kazama's grandma says hi!

In the latest installment, the rivalry between series mainstays Kazuya and Heihachi has gotten so bad that they've dragged more people into the fight, including Kazuya's supposedly dead mom/Heihachi's wife Kazumi. She will serve as the game's final boss battle and you'll have to defeat both her human and Devil forms. Oh, and she has a scary pet tiger, too.

THE BATTLE IS ON!

Learn fresh ways to defeat your foe.

The Tekken series is known for being easy to pick up and play, yet its varied combat mechanics make it challenging enough for the truly dedicated gamer to master. Tekken 7 updates the brawl with new mechanics.

Rage Arts: A special ability that unlocks during your character's Rage state (read: low HP).

Rage Drives: More powerful versions of your existing fighting moves.

Power Crushes: These moves can absorb high- and mid-attack damage.

Tailspin Attack: A combo extender that can break through walls.

DYK? The fighting game fandom's positive reception to Shaheen led to the creation of Street Fighter V's Rashid.

FIGHTING | RATING PG

NEW RECRUITS

Y'all better watch out 'coz these peeps are charging in fast!

JOSIE RIZAL

Josie kicks her way into battle with a combination of eskrima and kickboxing. This Pinay fighter even shares a number of moves with another series mainstay, Bruce Irvin. She has good range on her pokes, and really shines when landing counter hits.

SHAHEEN

You can expect a lot of side-switching during fights thanks to Shaheen's slide. He has a couple moves that you'll get a good number of combos out of. Watch out, though, 'coz some of his moves are highly punishable when blocked or whiffed.

Chloe's freestyle dance fighting technique is good for confusing opponents with high/low mixups, but her moves require more skill and timing than usual to pull off.

LUCKY CHLOE

His size means he's a natural heavy hitter, using combos with fewer hits than most, but with massive damage. However, it also makes him pretty easy to hit.

GIGAS

DYK? Akuma is the second guest character to show up in the Tekken series. The first was Gon, who appeared in Tekken 3.

How can I find Gaster in Undertale?

To increase your chances of spotting Gaster, you have to hack the game a bit. Open the Run app on your PC and type %appdata%, then go to the Local folder and click the Undertale subfolder. Before you do anything, copy all the files in the Undertale subfolder and paste them in a new folder. Open the undertale.ini file and change the Fun value to 66 and the Room value to 95, then save. Open up file0, change the value on the 36th line to 66, then go to the second to the last line and replace the value with 95. Save again. Do the same thing on file9. Boot up Undertale and continue the game. Walk to the left, then go right. There's a 10% chance that a door will pop up, and that's where Gaster is!

READER REVIEW

Angel Fontanilla
says Overwatch
overachieves!

Gameplay

Overwatch is a multiplayer first-person shooter that's really fun to play with a squad of six. You each get your own roles, depending on the hero that you pick. You can be offense, support, defense, or a tank.

Graphics

The 3D details on the weapons, characters, and maps are so intricate that the game might as well be a CG flick.

Sound

The voiceovers are perfect for the characters. The weapons' SFX will motivate you to dominate the game.

Replay

Every map has a specific game mode. Assault Mode requires players to capture or defend two target points. In Escort Mode, players must deliver a payload before time runs out. Hybrid Mode is a combination of the two other modes.

Overall

10/10! Overwatch is definitely a game I'd play over and over again. It's such an engaging shooter, thanks to the characters and the storyline.

DYK? Based on the game's Kickstarter page, Undertale's creators only needed US$5,000 to fund its production. Peeps loved the concept so much that the total crowdsourced funding reached US$51,124!

UNBE-LEAF-ABLE

Save empty potato chip packets that still look good as new. Fill them with dried leaves, seal the ends with glue, and stash the packets in the cupboard. The unfortunate (and hopefully not-too-hangry) soul who opens one won't be-leaf what hit them.

DOONA DECOY

Make it look like you're snoozing by putting pillows and soft objects under your blankets. Hide in the wardrobe and wait for your parents to come in to say good night. As they pull back the covers, jump out from your hiding place and surprise 'em! LOL!

PR-ANKLES

This trick works best if you have another prankster to lend a hand. First, soak your hands in icy water. Then, crawl under your sib's bed. Have your accomplice wake up your sib and give them a reason to leave the room. When they set their feet on the floor, grab their ankles—they're sure to let out a scream!

SEEING RED

Coat the inside of the faucet or showerhead with red food coloring. The next person to brush his teeth or take a bath will get a "bloody" surprise!

NO-BUBBLE BATH

Take a bar of soap and a bottle of clear nail polish. Brush or pour the nail polish all over the soap bar and leave it overnight to dry. In the morning, place the trick soap in the bathroom. Whoever uses it will wonder why it won't bubble up no matter what they do.

BUTTON MASH-UP

While your sib is away, change the settings of his game controllers by mixing up the button commands. When he comes back, challenge him to a match and watch him get confused by the controls and lose the game!
